Communication

- Primary channel: Imessage group chat.
- Secondary/emergency channel: Discord, Sfu email
- Expected response time: Within 12 hours on weekdays unless otherwise noted.
- Style of communication: Respectful, concise, supportive. Avoid sarcasm or dismissiveness.

Meetings

- Weekly meeting time: Wednesdays at 10:30AM ~ 11:20AM in person after class.
Decide when to hold remote meetings on Discord voice/screenshare
- Additional meetings: Scheduled as needed, agreed upon at least 24 hours in advance.
- Attendance: Members should notify the group at least 6 hours beforehand if they will miss a meeting.

Expectations

- Workload distribution: Tasks will be divided fairly based on skill sets and availability, confirmed at weekly meetings.
- Contribution standards: Members are expected to submit their work on time, communicate delays early, and ensure quality that meets agreed-upon standards.
- Asking for help: Members should first use the team channel to get support; teaching staff should only be contacted after the group has discussed and agreed it's necessary.
- Respect: Every member's ideas, skills, and schedules will be valued. Criticism should focus on the work, not the person.

Conflict Resolution

1. Raise the issue directly with the member(s) involved in a calm and respectful way.
2. If unresolved, bring it up during a team meeting to find a collective solution.
3. If the conflict continues, a designated mediator within the team will facilitate a discussion.
4. Only if failure persists should teaching staff be contacted (last resort).

Contribution and Group Grade

A member may forfeit entitlement to the group grade if:

- They consistently fail to communicate or respond within agreed timelines.
- They repeatedly miss meetings without notice.
- They do not complete assigned tasks without prior discussion or attempt to renegotiate workload.
- They show consistent disrespect toward team members.

All members agree that final decisions about excluding someone from the group grade require unanimous agreement of the remaining team members.
